POWERS RACE FOR SOVIET TRADE DEAL

America Hurrying Negotiations.

RUSSIA WANTS $100,000,000 CREDIT FOR PURCHASES

Washington. The withdrawal of the British embargo on Russian imports and the resumption of trading relations between the two countries is now being followed by a three-nation contest between Britain, America and France for up to U.S. $1,000,000,000 worth of sales to Soviet Russia, with the United States attempting to finish the necessary negotiations before either Great Britain or France.

The problem is, primarily, one of credit, and it is said here that the winner in the contest will be the Nation which offers the best terms. Russia wants immediately to buy around $100,000,000 worth of cotton, sugar and metals other than iron.

She must, however, arrange credit and if she can get enough it is believed that her purchases may reach $1,000,000,000.

The negotiations here are being carried on in various quarters, among them the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, which handles the exportation of farm surpluses.

SUEZ CANAL DUES TOO HIGH

Handicap To British Shipping.

SCATHING CRITICISM BY SIR. A. WILSON

London, Yesterday. A scathing criticism of the Suez Canal dues which, he declared, resulted in turning Far Eastern trade to the United States, was uttered yesterday by Lt.-Col. Sir Arnold Wilson, the well-known authority on the middle East and India, before the Economics Section of the British Association.

Sir Arnold Wilson pointed out that the Suez dues were 99 pence per registered ton, as compared with 57 pence for the Panama Canal, thus making it very easy for American ships from the Atlantic to compete with British and European shipping in China, Japan and Singapore.

The problem must be faced sooner or later, whether it is in public interest that the Suez Canal should stay in the hands of a private company which frankly announced the intention of charging as much as it could, Sir Arnold Wilson declared.

The meeting of the British Association opened at Leicester on Wednesday last.

COCHET JOINS PROFESSIONAL TENNIS RANKS

Vines Also To Lose Amateur Status.

FAMOUS PLAYERS FOR TILDEN'S GROUP

Paris, Yesterday. Wimbledon champion in 1927 and 1929, and holder of the French title on four occasions since 1922, Henri Cochet, one of the famous Three Musketeers of lawn tennis, has decided definitely to turn professional according to a statement made by him here to-day.

Ellsworth Vines, who took Wimbledon by storm last year and who completed the "double" by carrying off the American championship, is authoritatively understood to be forfeiting his amateur status in the near future.

There was great speculation regarding Cochet's plans after his significant statement, "I am going to turn professional, but I do not know when. I will become a professional the moment I go on to the court to play in a match for which I am paid."

"If I play against Tilden in the match between Tilden's group and the French professionals I will naturally play as a professional."

Cochet, who is now 32 is expected to play "Big Bill" Tilden in the Franco-American match on September 22.

With Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra, both of whom have now retired from international tennis, Henri Cochet formed France's famous "Three Musketeers" who won the Davis Cup for six years. In 1927 he ended Tilden's long dominance of international tennis.

This year he was twice beaten by Crawford, at Wimbledon and Antwerp, and lost to Perry in the Challenge Round of the Davis Cup. Ellsworth Vines' amateur status came under investigation recently after the rumours of a $100,000 offer from Tilden's Circus, but the U.S.L.T.A. were satisfied that he had not endangered his status. Vines, who is only 24, has sustained Turin, Yesterday. Beccali, the Italian Olympic champion, equalled Jules Ladoumègue's world's record for the 1,500 metres to-day when he beat J. E. Lovelock, holder of the world's record for the mile, by five yards in 3 mins. 49.1/5 secs. in the International Universities Games. — Reuter.

Beccali beat J. F. Cornes, the Oxford University President, and Phil Edwards, the Canadian champion, in 3 mins. 51.1/5 secs. at the Olympic Games last year.

Ladoumègue, who was banned from the Tenth Olympiad on the score of professionalism, established the record in 1930.

Washington, Yesterday. The first of the daily quotations at which newly mined gold may be sold in America and abroad, was yesterday fixed at U.S. $29.62 per ounce. This price, it is understood, is entirely satisfactory to producers, who contemplate early shipments.

KULING ONLY AN INFORMAL CONFERENCE

No Change In China's Foreign Policy.

MR. SUN FO'S VERSION

Nanking, Yesterday. Interviewed by Chinese pressmen yesterday, Mr. Sun Fo stated the Kuling discussions ended on September 6. He explained that the leaders had gathered there for an informal exchange of opinion regarding outstanding problems, rather than a formal conference, hence no resolution was adopted.

Mr. Sun deprecated the rumours of a changed foreign policy, adding that China's foreign policy was primarily based on the principle of strengthening China's national existence and sovereignty.

Regarding the American wheat and cotton loan, Mr. Sun said that a committee would be formed to control funds and supervise expenditure.

He confirmed the report that the National Economic Commission would be enlarged, in order to give it effective and sufficient powers to attend to the economic development of China.

Mr. Sun Fo left for Shanghai last night, while Mr. Wang Ching-wei and the other leaders are returning to Nanking from Kuling to-morrow. — Reuter.

The "Meishun" arrived here from Sanokan on Wednesday.

BLUE EAGLE AS SYMBOL

"CAPITAL AND LABOUR IN CONFLICT"

Middle Classes Will Arise In Wrath.

STARTLING SPEECH BY LEADING ECONOMIST

Wellesley, Hill, Mass., Yesterday. The sensational prediction that a Fascist Dictatorship will arise in the United States was made here last night by Mr. Roger Babson, the well-known economist and statistician.

Mr. Babson, who was speaking at the National Business Conference, now in session here, predicted that the current conflict between Labour and Capital over the redistribution of wealth will arouse the wrath of the middle classes.

"The middle classes will force a fascist Dictatorship in this country, with the National Recovery Administration, 'Blue Eagle,' as the symbol," dramatically declared Mr. Babson.

He declined to predict the likely dictator.

Peking, Yesterday. It is authoritatively stated that the Luantung Retrocession Commission is considering sending a delegate to Changchun to negotiate with General Hsishikari for permission to despatch Chinese troops to the Luantung area, on the ground that the police force allowed by the Treaty is insufficient to handle the task of suppressing the bandits in that zone.

The delegate will also negotiate for the return of the walled city of Shanhaikuan.

It is believed that the Japanese will be favourably disposed to the proposal. — Reuter's Pacific Service.

REMEDIOS BROTHERS DUE HERE TUESDAY

Proceeding To Macao For Trial.

"TRUNK MURDER" CASE

Shanghai, Yesterday. Patricio dos Remedios, the self-confessed murderer of the hapless Choy Ling, and his brother, Jose Eulalia dos Remedios, will arrive in Hong Kong on Tuesday morning on the "Messageries Maritimes" liner, "Felix Roussel," from Shanghai.

The two brothers are en route to Macao for trial. — Reuter.

Popularly known as the "Trunk Murder," the affair is described as one of the most horrible killings in the history of Shanghai crime. The body of Choy Ling, patricio Remedios's common law wife, was discovered in a trunk aboard the s.s. Shanghai Maru, when the vessel reached Kobe, early last month.

A sensation was caused by the preliminary hearing of the case before the Portuguese Consul-General on August 27, when Patricio Remedios calmly related how he had murdered the victim in his his room, with an ice-breaker, on the night of August 4, afterwards packing the body in a trunk which he placed on board the "Shanghai Maru."

The "Sunday Herald" is informed that up till noon yesterday, no advice of the extradition of the prisoners had been received from Shanghai. It is understood, however, that the Hong Kong police will transfer the two men to the Macao boat as is usual when extradited prisoners are forced to break their journey in the Colony.

CHAPTER V.

The Mission-Station.

(By GERALD BURRARD.)

"TELL me, Sher Khan, who was that man, and why did you kill him?" Geoffrey, Brandon, and the Pathan were seated in the policeman's private room in his bungalow.

"That man, sahib? Why, his name was Kurram Ali. And I killed him because he was a real member of the gang. If I had not he would have betrayed us."

"Kurram Ali? But that was what Bulbul called you."

"Of course, sahib. We were supposed to be alike. I recognised him at once, even in the darkness. He never saw me—my face was against the light. I always suspected him to be an intriguer. He was coming to the meeting, but luckily for us he was late."

"But how do you know he was coming to the meeting?"

"By this, sahib," and Sher Khan drew a knife from his breast. It was an exact duplicate of the one Geoffrey had taken at Port Said!

"But surely did not Bulbul see it?"

"No. Kurram Ali had it in his hand under his coat. I guessed what was in the wind, and it so happens that I guessed right. I found the knife under his body. He had it clasped in his hand, so I had not far to look."

"Well, Sher Khan, we are now quits. I don't see why I should drag you up to Tibet. I know you were grateful because I saved your life. But now that debt is repaid."

"Stop, sahib. This is a game after the heart of a man, especially if he be a Pathan. I will not draw back. Besides," he added, with a smile, "there is perhaps profit in it. I had a hundred rupees in each of those purses."

"There was no more to be said on the matter, so Geoffrey did not attempt to say anything, but the look he gave Sher Khan was not lost on the latter."

"Now that's settled as I knew it would be," Brandon laughed, "what is to be the next move? We now have absolute proof that Bulbul is a pretty big bug in this organisation. Shall I have him arrested or give him more rope? Now we know so much, I do not think he will be quite so dangerous. What any you?"

"I am with you. Far better let him have a feeling of false security while Sher Khan and I go and track down their lair. I wish we had found out a bit more about that."

"Come, come. You two have found out to-night more than all of our secret services and police have been able to learn in eighteen months. We now know the source of their wealth, and that the controlling hand seems to be this gentleman they call 'The Tiger of Tibet.' We also know that there is an agent, and probably a very important one, in England. It was undoubtedly he who gave warning of your start, and to whom you owe your little affairs in Port Said, the Gulf of Aden, and the train on the way up from Bombay. So far, so good. We have now three more things to find out, and when we have got them we have won:

"First, the whereabouts of the temple.

"Secondly, the lair of the 'Tiger'.

"Third, the name of their agent in England."

"We must now fit in what you have learned with poor Carlton's last message. You remember he said that the lair of the 'Tiger' was in the Holy Mountain. This seems to bear out with your information, and I think that we can assume that the 'Tiger's' lair is in the temple where the treasure is. If you can find one, you will find the other at the same time. That is your hunt. The man at home is another show, and I will cable to the Foreign Office about it immediately."

"You have summed up very well, Brandon. As you say, the temple

Philip Hayde Thompson.

The delay of the next few days was irksome. Sher Khan especially chafed at the "confinement to barracks," but Brandon was firm, and neither of his guests was allowed out of his gates until late one night when a big touring-car carried them and their miscellaneous assortment of impediments away towards the hills.

Ten days passed and still the little caravan toiled northwards. The path was rough. Bridges had to be repaired. The day's journey had to be finished by ten in the morning, so as to avoid annihilation from avalanche or falling rocks loosened by the melting snows.

They were now nearing the Tibetan frontier. What trees there were—juniper, rhododendron, silver-birch—showed but stunted growth.

One morning Geoffrey and Sher Khan climbed up the mountain-side in order to try for a burghol, or mountain-sheep, as their men as well as themselves were in need of meat. They had crossed a high spur, and were seated under a beetling cliff, spying for game. Suddenly Geoffrey detected a movement far, far below, and gazed the telescope. Yes, there could be no doubt. There in the field of view he could plainly see the figure of an English girl, and that girl was unmistakably none other than Phyllis Morriewell!

He leapt to his feet with a view to starting downhill at once, when Sher Khan gave a warning shout and pulled him on one side.

The Pathan was only just in time. A great boulder hurtled through the air and bounced within a yard of where Geoffrey had been sitting.

"You have summed up very well, Brandon. As you say, the temple

The reason for the wonderful popularity of the "Three Castles" Cigarettes is no mysterious, elusive secret. It may be summed up in one word—quality. With a reputation, in itself an unmistakable evidence of excellence, they have, for many years, received a measure of appreciation accorded to no other brand of Virginia Cigarettes.

Mainly Women

THE RIGHT WAY OF LIVING.

HOW does the average man or woman treat the human machine—their body? They feed themselves on foodless foods, sometimes excessive in quantity, and poor in quality. He allows the ashes to remain and clog the works. He gives the body but little oxygen and little exercise. And so the majority of people do not possess the precious asset of life—HEALTH.

Seven-tenths of humanity can be healthy and strong if prepared to pay the price.

What is the price?

First, the laws that govern life and health must be studied and then applied each and every day. The logical result is health—the greatest asset of life.

Health must be built or rather earned, every day. How can this be done?

By welcoming and putting into operation new facts concerning the science of living. By realizing always that health depends upon doing for yourself all those things that contribute to health.

By adopting good general habits that build health, and avoiding bad habits that cause disease.

BY PUTTING INTO THE BODY ONLY THOSE ELEMENTS THAT KEEP THE RED RIVER OF LIFE SWEET AND CLEAN.

And that is where the food we eat is so important. The transportation of food is now so easy that practically everybody can have foods of the purest quality all the year round. There is the famous Snowflake evaporated full cream milk which comes from New Zealand, the Empire's Dairy land where there is 280 days' sunshine a year. Sweet pastures full of vitamins all the year round. No cow-stables. No fodder-feeding. Snowflake milk makes no price appeal. ITS QUALITY TALKS. Then the "Kapal" N. Z. Honey, and "Royal Taste" have had voluntary tributes from men of high standing in the medical world. Sir W. Arbuthnot Lane the eminent physician said he strongly advised New Zealand honey for its health giving and sustaining properties. He also strongly recommended its use by athletes as an antidote to fatigue. He had seen it used with remarkable results by boxers, runners, cricketers, footballers, and others who train to keep in the best condition for vigorous recreation.

Now news has just reached Hong Kong that "Hellaby's Cooked Hams" (flavour sealed) has carried off the first prize and gold medal for the finest prime ham at the recent big Meat Fair held in Smithfield London. This speaks for the quality, and purity of these hams.

Now Oystine Soup is obtainable in Hong Kong. It is favourably known on all the great ocean liners, in the best hotels, and in hospitals where energizing nourishing food is essential for convalescents. Oystine Soup is made in New Zealand from oysters, and Toherons. Oystine is the most piquant and delightful Soup that has ever graced your table. Analysis has proved that Oystine has just nine times the energizing food value of oysters.

The Maxam Cheese is another first prize product, and its quality is the reason why it has become extremely popular in Hong Kong. Maxam Cheese is most beneficial to health because it possesses the maximum possible food value. It is recommended by doctors for people of weak digestive powers, and is rare among foods because it is exquisite to the palate while possessing energy body building quality, and when you are selecting these pure food products let me remind you of Whittores Tomato Juice, and pure orange Marmalade. And, so in the right way of living everyone owes it to themselves, and none the less to posterity, to be one hundred per cent. physically fit.

By living correctly on all planes of your being so that the vital organs may work in perfect unison. —Adv.

If you add an egg to butter and sugar before creaming it for a cake it will cream in about half the usual time.

Unusual Fashions At Lords

Early-Victorian Modes In Vogue.
SEA-SHELL DRESS

SOME of the girls who strolled with their top-hatted escorts found the pitch or over the club lawn at Lord's recently might have stepped straight from an illustration to "Vanity Fair."

Late eighteenth century and early-Victorian styles were the mode. Poke bonnets surmounted flounced, crinoline-like frocks. Even sunshades had frills.

Is shingling out of date? At least half the younger women present wore their hair in long plaits or coiled low on their necks in a way that matched their bonnets.

Extraordinary materials were used to decorate the dresses. One girl had a white frock trimmed near the ground with a coil of what looked like white rope.

Another had a pale pink dress hung with hundreds of small sea-shells.

Huge frills decorated not only the bottom of dresses, but framed the wearer's neck also. One dress had three rows of frills round the neck, each nearly 12in. wide. They stood out like an Chromium Invades The Kitchen.

COMPACT AND COMFORTABLE

It is extraordinary how metal minded we are getting these days.

Chromium steel necklaces and buttons adorn our frocks; the front door sports a chromium letter box, even the kitchen has a shining steel sink and table top.

That, in fact, in one of the happy things about chromium steel. It loves the sunlight, and flashes back a laughing reflection at you from its highly polished surface. And now chromium steel furniture has come to stay.

People say that steel chairs and glass-topped steel tables reminded them of the dentist. But that was in the days when metal furniture of any kind was still a novelty, and steel chairs were not as comfortable as they are to-day.

Upholstered seats and backs are one of the new improvements that bring them into line for the average house. Their compactness is another; both easy chairs and settees are admirably adapted in size to small rooms.

Legless Chairs.

Modern itself, chromium steel likes modern surroundings. It would not be happy with mahogany or old oak, but one or two small pieces, like a fireside armchair or a dressing stool, blend well with limed or weathered oak or the new waxed walnut.

But the actual shapes of the furniture are adapting themselves to more homely conditions, except that the chairs have no legs in the ordinary sense.

They are made of one continuous piece of steel tubing, which is bent to form the back, seat, and a solid base. The chair cannot collapse or overturn.

Bedsteads are made in delightful shapes, the steel tubes being used to form a pattern at the head and foot—a much nicer and better looking version of the old brass and iron bedsteads.

To improve the flavor of mashed turnips, add a few drops of vinegar and a little castor-sugar.

LAST WICKET STAND WINS MATCH

H.Q. Lincolns Surprised At Shamshupo.

A dogged last wicket partnership between L/Cpl. Deakin and Cpl. Clarke gave "A" Company a surprise triumph by one wicket over Headquarters Wing in the Lincoln's Inter-Company cricket competition at Shamshupo yesterday.

Requiring 78 to win "A" Company had lost 9 wickets for 70 runs when Deakin and Clarke came together to defy Pte. Ulyatt and Sgt. Lilley who had bowled unchanged.

Cpl. Clarke and Pte. Heath also bowled unchanged during the H.Q. innings. During the match Ulyatt, Pte. Higgins, and Heath all hit sixes.

To-morrow "B" Company will meet "C" Company in the semi-final and "A" Company will play "D" (M.G.) Company in the other semi-final during the week. The final will be played at the K.C.C. on Thursday and Friday, September 21 and 22.

VALLEY HALL FETCHES $435 AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Li O'Connor New Owner

Mrs. Peter Yoon's Valley Hall, "D" Class race pony, was sold to Lt. D. H. O'Connor, of the 1st Bn. Lincolnshire Regiment, for $435 at the China Auction Rooms yesterday morning.

Lt. O'Connor, who owns Jimmy and who has a share in Kilrea, the Australian pony, purchased Valley Hall after the bidding had started at $200.

Valley Hall won two races during the first half of the season and was unplaced only three times in nine starts. He is entered for the Macao Meeting a week to-day.

LANGE BREAKS 220 RECORD

Donn Retains 50 Yards Title.

FOWLER'S SPORTING GESTURE

Morrison Beats Goldman After Dive-Off at the Y.M.C.A. Gala

H. Lange, the H.K. I.A.S.A. 220 Yards Free Style champion, clipped 62.5 secs. off his 1932 Y.M.C.A. record at the "Y" gala last night when he clocked 2 mins. 46.3/5 secs., which was 3 secs. below the times he recorded in the recent Association championships.

With the exception of Lange's effort the swimming was disappointing, none of the times comparing favourably with last year's standard.

A. G. Donn retained his 50 Yards title, and G. H. Fowler succeeded W. A. Schreuder as the 100 Yards Breast Stroke champion when he covered the distance without opposition. A. Morrison recorded his first diving triumph of the season (title), and G. H. Fowler succeeded at a dive-off.

The closest finish in the championships was witnessed in the Men's Diving. A. Morrison and R. Goldman tied for first place with 49 points. Morrison won the dive-off by 2 points. D. Sutherland, who very sportingly came forward to make a third, in spite of being ill, was placed third.

Morrison's dives were a swallow, the running front-jack-knife (Set Dive) and the running one-and-a-half front somersault, while Goldman's dives were the swallow, the running front jack-knife (Set-Dive) and the running full twist. Sutherland carried out similar dives with the exception of the optional, which was a back jack-knife. The dives were performed off both boards.

The Men's 50 Yards Championship resulted in a win for A. G. Donn, the holder, who recorded 27 seconds, three-fifths of a second worse than last year's time.

Eric Ralston swam a brilliant race to snatch second place from R. B. Wood. M. Critchley, who came fourth, caused the sensation of the evening when he took the lead in the first length only to lose it on the turn.

Much disappointment was caused by three of the competitors scratching from the Men's 100 Yards Breast Stroke championship which was won by G. H. Fowler who swam over the distance by himself. Schreuder failed to put in an appearance.

Fowler very sportingly proposed that the event be transferred to the next gala when W. Schreuder, the holder, would have a chance of defending his title, but under the championship ruling this was not permitted.

The Men's 220 Yards provided an easy win for H. Lange the holder, who led from the start and finished up well ahead of the rest of the field to break his last year's record. A. G. Donn, who employed a powerful side stroke, kept up with W. T. Campbell and surprisingly beat him by a touch.

PLAY-OFF MAY BE NECESSARY

CRAIGENGOWER PLAYING CIVIL SERVICE NEXT SAT.

INDIANS AND POLICE BRING OFF SURPRISE WINS

LUZ PROMINENT IN INTERPORT PRACTICE.

CRAIGENGOWER must beat the Civil Service in their last league bowls match next Saturday if they are to avoid a play-off with the Bowling Green for the junior title.

Beaten on all three rinks at the K.B.G.C. yesterday the champions went down before the Bowling Green by 33 shots. The Bowling Green juniors who are attempting to win the title they last won in 1931 and thus give the K.B.G.C. the "double," have now concluded their fixtures for the season.

The Police surprisingly beat the Civil Servants, who will visit Craigengower in their last match next Saturday, and the Indian R.C. caused another sensation when they beat the Yacht Club, last year's runners-up, by 2 shots at Sookunpoo. In the remaining fixture the Electric brought off the "double" at the expense of the K.C.C. by a narrow margin.

The brilliance of R. F. Luz, who was beaten by A. Hyde Lay in the final of the Open on the same green earlier in the week, was the outstanding feature of the Interport Practice on the Craigengower green. The teams, however, did not play up to Interport form.

F. J. Anslow was the fourth competitor.

The Semi-finals of the Men's 50 Yards Aggregate for the trophy presented by His Honour, Acting Chief Justice J. R. Wood, produced some very poor swimming most of the competitors in both heats jumping the start.

Fowler Equals Wood

The first heat was won by S. Fowler who narrowly beat R. B. Wood. Both men are now equal in points having 10 each. T. Gilmore came third in this heat.

The second heat was won by D. Sutherland, who swam an excellent race to snatch victory from W. T. Campbell and T. Ingram in that order.

Miss S. Dalziel won the first heat of the Ladies' 50 Yards Aggregate Handicap from Mrs. M. Read, who conceded a second, after a very close race. Miss J. Weller who went at "go" came in third.

In the second heat, Miss M. Lane who received 6 seconds from Miss P. McCaw, the scratch swimmer, won narrowly from Miss J. Shoemith. Miss McCaw was placed third.

The Mixed team race resulted in a good win for R. Goldman's team who led from the start, R. B. Wood fighting out an exciting finish with F. J. Anslow to win by a touch.

SOCCER AGAIN

ARTILLERY BEAT CLUB BY ODD GOAL

Combey Saves Howe's Last Minute Effort.

CLUB JUNIOR'S WIN 2-1

The 1933-4 soccer season was unofficially opened yesterday when the Club and Artillery played two friendly encounters which resulted in the military team winning the senior game by the odd goal in five and the civilians triumphing in the junior game by 2 goals to 1.

Drown, who was to have played on the Club wing, was unfortunately unable to play owing to the fact that he is in hospital, and Hills, who was making his debut in the junior game, was also an absentee.

Fowler Brothers In Limelight.

ARTILLERY TEAM WEAKENED THIS SEASON

In the senior game the Artillery snatched a last minute victory by the odd goal in five, but a draw would have been a fairer result. Just before the final whistle blew Howe had a great chance, but Combey brought off a wonderful save.

C. A. Wright, formerly of the Shanghai Football Club, did not make an impressive debut, but allowed that there is good football in him. His constructive play was handicapped by the fact that the Club forwards lay too far back. He, however, held Greenshields easily, but found Pardoe too good for him.

Club Defence Impresses Bickford, who was with Kowloon last season, was given little to do, though he always found Harris a stumbling block. Howe made a welcome return to the side, and if they will play together the Club should be able to turn out a useful team. On the whole they played well. The defence was sound, S. Fowler played a good game in goal, being remarkably cool when under pressure. Andy Duncan was the pick of the halves and Skinner played well.

F. Fowler was the pick of the forwards. He and Dornay combined with fine understanding. Howe did not get many passes down the middle, but though he missed several chances, he scored a glorious goal. E. Strange went through with some sparkling runs, but his passing was weak.

The Gunners are not the team they were last season. With such good forwards as Bryant, Wood, Gough and Moore away, their attack gave a poor exhibition. Seal did nothing and Walker was out of position too often. Edmunds was the best forward, making many openings for Greenshields and Snooks.

Stout Artillery Defence

In defence the Artillery were well served with Allan and Combey outstanding. Wroe would do better by clearing to his forwards instead of passing in front of goal. Pardoe and Rogers excelled in defence, the former's tackling being splendid.

The first thrill came when Howe cleverly eluded Pardoe and Wroe, but Combey advanced and smothered his shot. Fowler saved well and then both sides missed chances, Greenshields and Edmunds missing in turn and Howe falling at the other end.

The Artillery opened the scoring after 20 minutes when Pardoe sent in a high shot which was deflected into the net by Hynes. A minute later Walker added a second from close in.

The Club were soon to advantage in the second half. Howe headed over with Combey out and then a good movement by E. Strange and Dornay ended in the latter hitting the side netting.

Ten minutes later Howe scored a spectacular goal from a pass by Duncan. He showed splendid ball control and swerved round Allan to send in a fast grounder which

HONG KONG, SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1933.

Naval Activities In Hong Kong.

ALTHOUGH Hong Kong is an important naval base the residents are surprisingly ignorant of naval affairs, and in fact, of most matters appertaining to the sea. Apart from the slight knowledge to be gained from ferry trips and close views of shipping movements in the harbour the majority of Hong Kong people are poorly informed in nautical matters — and, judging from the attendances at the Yacht Club's regattas, they are not greatly interested. Although the Yacht Club has expanded considerably during the past year, the membership is still surprisingly small in view of the extremely cheap cost of the sport here and the splendid natural advantages of the harbour and the weather. The announcement that a Navy Day is to be observed on October 21. Trafalgar Day, is then, all the more welcome. The project should arouse enthusiasm and the success of the function is certain. The programme will be similar to that of the Navy Week exhibitions at Home, and there is little question that the opportunity of inspecting the warships will be eagerly availed of by the public. The object of the celebration, as outlined by the Commodore, "to foster better relations between the residents of Hong Kong and the Navy" is a most commendable one. The lack of contact between the Services and the community has been the subject of frequent unfavourable comment, and any move to bring about a closer relationship should be encouraged. Except in sporting spheres, there is very little contact between the military and civilian communities.

Coincident with the plans to hold a more fitting observance of Trafalgar Day, the proposal for the establishment of a Naval Volunteer Reserve is being revived. Such a force would serve a most useful purpose and the proposal is worthy of support. The circumstances, economic and otherwise, which caused the rejection of the scheme in 1929 do not now exist and there should be few obstacles in the way of the formation of the Volunteer unit. The question of finance arises, but the Admiralty has probably made arrangements, while, if it is necessary, the local Government would be justified in contributing towards the expenses, which should not be unduly large. The fear has been expressed that the new unit would attract members away from the Volunteer Defence Corps; but the numbers could be restricted. It is more likely that the greater appeal of sea service would attract many to whom the inducement of service in the H.K.V.D.C. has proved insufficient. Further, rivalry may provide a much-needed stimulus to the whole Volunteer movement, and the argument that more recruits would be obtained through the formation of the naval unit is unanswerable. That the establishment of an auxiliary naval unit would meet with an enthusiastic response admits of little doubt, and the whole-hearted support of the Yacht Club assured, the reserve force should soon be placed on a successful footing. The value of such a body is obvious, and the services it could perform, such as mine-laying and sweeping, harbour patrol, and other minor, but essential, jobs, would leave the Fleet free to operate outside the harbour. The unit would prove quite as valuable as the land auxiliary forces, while it could prove a further asset as a harbour patrol during typhoons. With the awakening of interest which will result from the Navy Day celebrations, the proposal is likely to gain favour and an early decision can be expected. With the promise of so much naval activity locally it is significant that Capt. D. Euan Wallace, a Civil Lord of the Admiralty, is to visit the Colony. It is reasonable to assume that it is not merely a coincidence that he is to arrive two days before Trafalgar Day.

WELL-KNOWN AUTHOR ON WORLD TO-DAY

Most Difficult Period
In History.

PROBLEM FOR PRESENT GENERATION

London.
The most interesting—and the most difficult—period in the world's history is how Mr. Hugh Walpole the well-known author of "The Cathedral" and "Rogue Herries," described the present epoch to the boys of Rydal School, Colwyn Bay. Their generation, he told them, would have to find a way of reconciling and blending two opposite extremes: individualism and altruism, nationalism and internationalism.

"You will have to learn," he said, "how to be individuals—that is not standardised, not of a pattern so that the world looks the same wherever you go, robots of a mechanised mind and person."

"But when you have kept your individuality you will have to use it for a common good. In the same way you must be patriots, loving, passionately your country, wanting everything that is good for it, but, having established your love of country, you must see then that patriotism helps the world and not only your own country."

"Patriotism is not enough, personal security is not enough. How are you to find the means of avoiding the disappointment which all your seniors are now feeling? I think by a consciousness of some kind of religion. I do not mean of necessity any dogmatic religion."

"But retain a conviction that there is some life behind the material life that is lovely and lasting, that will make your egotism unselfish and your disappointments unimportant. You must not shut your yourselves away from the opportunity of 'discovering this.'—Reuter.

MEXICO'S VETERAN SPORTSMAN

Britisher Holds Bulk
Of Records.

"CLAUDIO THE CONQUEROR"

Mexico City.
For 28 years an English sportsman, Mr. Claude Butlin has astonished Mexico with his athletic feats. Known to sport fans here by the affectionate name of "Claudio," he probably has a larger record of sporting conquests than any other Englishman resident abroad. He was born in Ceylon and educated at St. George's College, Surrey.

These are some of "Claudio's" triumphs:—
For 20 years he was singles tennis champion of Mexico.
For 10 years open champion at golf.
For nine years he topped bowling and batting averages here. (He has broken 50 stumps in the course of his bowling career.)

For five years he has been Mexican champion at the open hurdles as well as for the 70, 100 and 200 yards.
He once won 20 prizes in bicycle races on the old "Penny farthing."

Now with 500 odd prizes and cups to his credit Mr. Claude Butlin has settled down as Mexico's champion at bowls.—Reuter.

FORTUNE FROM THE OCEAN.

Ambergris Found In Whale's Stomach.

Lisbon.
Fortune from the sea has come to a group of fisherman at Capelas, a little village near Ponta Delgada. A large whale was cast up on the beach and the villagers set to work to extract the oil and the blubber. Hardly had they begun their work than a faint aromatic odour caused intense excitement.
Hacking their way into the carcass, the searchers were rewarded by finding about a hundredweight of ambergris.

The value of the ambergris, which is used for making perfumes, represents wealth to the whole village.—Reuter.

from
OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

August 7.

Captain of the Fleet.

Captain Ronald Oldham's appointment as Captain of the Fleet, Home Fleet, on board H.M.S. Nelson, became operative recently. It was announced some time ago, when there was a general opinion in the Service that Captain Oldham—short, "stocky," freckled, and red-haired—would have a job well to his liking.

For he is, a strenuous organiser, very much on the serious side despite his rather boyish appearance, and has never occupied himself much with games or athletics. As the officer responsible for "home comforts" in the Fleet, welfare generally, and the superintending of arrangements for liberty men, he will have his time well occupied. He used to command H.M.S. Shropshire, the first warship to bear that name—as Shropshire folk were quick to recognise, for they led her with presentations.

Bearded Bankers.

Mr. Montagu Norman has one attribute of greatness. The brilliant young men whom he has attracted to his service imitate his mannerisms.

When Mr. "Rugby" Holland Martin joined the board of the Bank of England, he retired into seclusion. His friends said that he was growing a beard. It was untrue. No ruddy beard obscured the roseate hue of Mr. Holland Martin's cheeks.

Now, however, Mr. Francis Rodd, who recently left the Bank of England to become partner in the firm of Morgan, Grenfell, has grown a beard so silken, so luxuriant, so Normanlike, that Mr. Norman himself may well be flattered, if, indeed, he is not jealous.

Smaller Pictures Popular.

This year's R.A. exhibition is now but a memory.
"Burlington House" closed recently in spite of the fact that September is a month in which there is a steady flow of visitors to London both from the provinces and from abroad.

It is not surprising that there has been a slump in the sales of large pictures. These cannot be accommodated in small houses and flats.

That is partly why sales from "the gem room" have been so brisk. Water-colours, which are usually on the small side, have also done well.

But the taste for modern water-colours has been growing ever since the almost fantastic demand for those painted in mid-Victorian times by Birket Foster and, a generation earlier, by Copley Fielding. In the boom years immediately after the war a Birket Foster would fetch anything between £500 and £2000.

The Kingly Walter.

Punctuality is the politeness of kings. Sometimes it brings strange rewards.

The other day the ex-King of Greece was invited to dine at a fashionable restaurant not far from Jermyn-street. He arrived punctually. His host and the other guests did not.

As he stood waiting, a young man bounced into the hall, dashed up to the King, and said imperiously: "Walter, I want a table for six. Let me see the list you've got."

"Take Your Choice."

Did the King blush and stammer like a fat-necked Republican? He did not. He bowed from the waist, conducted the young man into the restaurant and waved a comprehensive arm at the rows of empty tables. "Sir," he said with obsequious politeness, "any of these tables are at your disposal. You may take your choice."

Changes at the Aero Club.

More hospitality is to be accorded to women at the Royal Aero Club. In its new home in Piccadilly members have been to give ladies tea in the Club. But there were no facilities for luncheon or dinner.

Now arrangements are being made to set apart one dining room for the use of members accompanied by ladies.

During the past two or three years the Club has steadily increased in membership. It is under no necessity to "solicit patronage," but in view of the very large part played by women in flying it has been an anomaly that the social centre of British flying should be almost exclusively male.

From China to the "Proms."

One of the first soloists to appear at the "Proms," which opened on Aug. 18 was Mr. Benno Moiseiwitsch, the pianist.

M. Moiseiwitsch, who is a fine billiard player and quite a good golfer, has just returned from a tour to the Far East. It was this tour which his friend and fellow virtuoso, Mr. Mark Hambourg, started to make last autumn. In his case it was cut short in India by a serious illness which nearly proved fatal.

Moiseiwitsch got along very well with the Chinese. Possibly they admired his absolute impassivity. For he can adopt to perfection what is known as the "poker-face." And he knows, incidentally, all there is to know about poker.

Drama for the Gaiety.

"Settled policy" in the Gaiety Theatre has long been a thing of the past. But the Gaiety except for one production many years ago, has always produced plays that are gay, or, at least, intended to be gay.

Its next place will be of a very different type—the adaptation of Lady Eleanor Smith's "Ballroom."

This has a tense and tragic story, and demands acting above that of the musical-comedy order.

Pepper Box Hill.

Lord Radnor, the chairman of the Prince of Wales's Council of the Duchy of Cornwall, is trying to preserve one of the principal beauty spots in Wiltshire.

This is Pepper Box Hill, eighty-three acres of which it is hoped to purchase for £747.

If the land is acquired, Lord Radnor will add to it as a free gift for the National Trust a grove of beech and fir at the entrance to it from the road, and the beautiful hanging wood farther along the hillside known as Grinstead Beeches—some 13 acres in all.

Grouse, Deer and Fishing, £25.

Some of the prices reported to have been paid for shooting rights in the Highlands this autumn might make bygone landowners turn in their graves.

As late as 1863 Lord Malmesbury recorded that he was offered a range of splendid country, with grouse, deer, and fishing of the best, at a rent of £25 for the season.

He thought the price asked excessive. Only a few years earlier, he lamented, a stranger could shoot or fish over almost any part of the Highlands without interruption, "the letting of the game nature being then unknown to their possessors."

Most Costly Garden.

One of the sights in the City of London to-day is the mulberry tree bearing fruit in the garden of Drapers' Hall, in Throgmorton-street, within a stone's-throw of the Bank of England.

It is said that the probable value of the land in this garden is about £5,000 per square foot.

It is probably one of the most costly gardens in the world.

Regency Bathing Queues.

Bathing queues were not altogether unknown even a century ago—as witness an amusing account given by a visitor to Brighton in the days of the Regency.

"Each man," he said, "runs to a machine ladder as if he is dragged out of the sea and scuffles who shall first set foot thereon. Some send their footmen and contend by proxy, others go in boats or on horseback to meet the machines. So that a tolerably modest man on a busy morning generally has some hours for contemplation on the sand, to the detriment of his shoes and his temper."

When impatient souls took to bathing from the beach without machines, the town authorities fined them five guineas for each offence.

"WOLF CHILD" OF THE WILD

7-Year-Old Boy Found In Forest.
LIVED WITH SAVAGE BEASTS

Belgrade. In the dense forest on the Zlatibor Mountains of Yugoslavia, which are still infested with large numbers of wolves, bears and other savage beasts, a normally developed child of about seven has been found living among the animals.

The child was captured by peasants after an exciting chase. He was savage, and he bit and scratched his capturers mercilessly.

At first it was believed that he was deaf and dumb for he made no reply to the questions of his pursuers.

After a few days in captivity, however, the boy learned to talk well.

It appears that the boy was deliberately lost in the forests over a year ago by his mother. She imagined that he must be dead but the boy managed to fend for himself.

He lived on grass and other vegetable matter and grain and fruit stolen from lonely farms. He became used to wild animals, which never attacked him, and which he learned to avoid by climbing trees.

The boy is being examined by doctors who wish to find how far his senses have been developed by wild life and how far his normal intelligence has been weakened. The mother has been imprisoned.—Reuter.

HONG KONG TEACHER HONoured

Honorary Degree From U.S. University.

FIRST CHINESE WOMAN TO BE AWARDED

New York. Chinese women have known all along that they were anybody's intellectual equals. But at last they feel that they have proved it, even to the satisfaction of a skeptical Western world. Their proof has arrived in New York in the person of Dr. Soo-ling F. C. Woo, who came to this country to be the first Chinese woman to receive an honorary degree from an American university. Moreover, in 1926, Dr. Woo was the first Chinese woman to be decorated by the British Government for her prowess in the educational field.

Dr. Woo, dignified, energetic, learned, is as thrilled as a young school girl over her first diploma—and yet she was graduated from Oxford, studied at Columbia, and has been President of a junior college for girls in China for over 17 years. Diplomas and degrees, one would think, are simply run of the mill affairs for her.

Teaches in Hong Kong. But she is unspoiled, and can still wrinkle up her round expressive face with a smile and tell you that she was "terribly thrilled." Her degree was awarded by the University of Southern California—the degree of Doctor of Pedagogy. The ceremony was held in the tremendous stadium in Los Angeles in which the Olympic games were held last summer. Dr. Woo was placed in the first six to be honoured, and found among her colleagues of the mortar board the Commander of the United States Fleet.

Why was she chosen to receive the degree? Dr. Woo smiled broadly when she was asked that during an interview in the Waldorf Astoria. Maybe, she said with a curious twinkle in her eye, it was because she had just added to her campus a $700,000 building. "It is the only school in China with an indoor swimming pool," she explained.

But if a swimming pool is insufficient cause for a pedagogical degree in the eyes of America, she could tell of other things she has done. Her school, the St. Paul's Girls College in Hong Kong, is one of the leading institutions of its kind to be organized and built up entirely by Chinese.

Foremost Teacher in China. Dr. Woo has combined in it the best educational methods that she could glean from both England and America, and has added a generous curriculum of Chinese subjects—so that three cultures are combined, and three national educational methods are welded together in her school. Dr. Woo is considered (although she will not tell you herself) one of the foremost women educators in China.

Dr. Woo is very proud of the athletic prowess which her girls have developed. "They are especially fond of swimming," she said. "Each year they enter the Hong Kong swimming races, and almost every time one of my girls is the winner of the Chinese Club swim across the harbour."

Dr. Woo is returning to China soon and is taking with her a group of 10 American born Chinese children, who are to be educated in their homeland, under her own supervision.

While she remains in New York, Dr. Woo is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. K. Chung of 550, Seventh Street, Brooklyn.—Reuter.

MARY PICKFORD'S CREED

Religion Is Something To Be Lived.

THE WAY OF PERFECTION

Hollywood, California.

Mary Pickford has found time to think about human problems during her career as a screen star. She has thought much about religion, and in the August issue of the Forum she writes:

"I have always felt religion as something to be lived, not discussed. Perhaps, that is what has been the matter with it—we've spent too much time talking about it and not enough trying to live it."

In another part of the article she says:

"The way of perfection is simple but difficult. To me it means being one's best, doing one's best and looking for the best in the other fellow. It requires discipline and continuous effort, but it is one of the happiest ways through the tangle of human living."

Her conclusion about religion is: "The world is grasping for something beyond the tottering material effects. It wants religion, it needs religion, but more than anything else, I believe, it needs a restatement of religion, the lifting of a helpful and beautiful thing out of intricate definitions and gestures into something as simple and useful as breathing.—Reuter.

NIGHTLY MESSAGE TO WIFE

New York.

If, by any chance, you think General Italo Balbo doesn't actually fly his own of the 24 planes he led here across the Atlantic from Italy, you are wrong.

The General himself said so when he was in New York.

"Fly my own plane!" he exclaimed in response to a question. "Of course I do. If I don't, what do you think caused these callouses?" He threw up his hands, opened his palms and sure enough there were the callouses.

He said that it is no secret that he calls his wife by wireless telephone every night regardless of where he is—flying or on the ground—and so he can't understand how word over got around that he is a bachelor.

He also called Signor Mussolini when leading his squadron across the Atlantic.—Reuter.

CUPID IN ECLIPSE IN HOLLYWOOD

Divorces Outnumber Weddings.

MDIVANI PRINCES IN TROUBLE

Hollywood, California.

The Douglas Fairbanks-Mary Pickford separation has followed a year of marital unrest in the film colony in which separations and divorce actions have outnumbered elopements and weddings.

Roughly the ratio was about 27 to 21.

By coincidence the most prominent film couple recently divorced was Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Joan Crawford. Some months earlier, Lottie Pickford, Mary's sister, divorced Russell O. Cillard.

Recently in the news were the Mdivanis, Princes of the Little Soviet Republic of Georgia. Mao Murray, star of the silent days, filed a divorce suit against Prince Dave, while Mary McCormick, grand opera singer, sued Prince Serge for separate maintenance. They had a receiver appointed for their husbands, asserting that they advanced the princes much money and received little in return.

Domestic tragedy also stalked in the homes of the comical Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy. Mrs. Lois Laurel sued Stan for a divorce, while his comedy team-mate took similar action against Mrs. Myrtle Hardy.

Eleanor Boardman and King Vidor aired their home troubles in the courts, chiefly over a division of property. Miss Boardman was given a divorce and custody of their two children.

Janet Gaynor found Lydell Peck, lawyer, incompatible and divorced him.

Maurice Chevalier and Yvonne Vallee were granted a divorce by mutual consent in their native France.

Lola Lane and Lew Ayres had the nuptial knot severed in court.

Marian Nixon divorced Edward Hillman, Jr., the rich Chicagoan.

Chester Conklin, together comedian, and Mrs. Mimi Conklin were legally separated after years of married life.

Other divorces among the better known of Hollywood included: H. B. Warner and Rita Stanford Warner; Carlyle Blackwell, veteran screen hero, and Leah Blackwell; Crane Wilbur, actor-playwright, and Mrs. Wilbur; Jack Holt and Mrs. Margaret Holt; Mrs. Anna Franklin and Sidney Franklin, director.

Lottie Pickford later married John Locke, Pittsburgh sportsman, and Carlyle Blackwell married Avoine Taylor.—Reuter.

WOMAN SEEKS THE UGLIEST HOME

Hideous Eyesore In New York Suburb.

SPITTING THE COUNCIL

New York.

Mrs. Irene Warren has issued an appeal to famous artists to advise her how she can make her home uglier than it is. Already people come from miles around to get a shock, says the New York Telegram. But she won't be satisfied until her house is the ugliest in the world. Then, she hopes, the Borough Council will permit—nay, implore—her to lease the property for a filling station or anything else.

The insistence of the Borough Council that the house was in a residential zone was what got Mrs. Warren's anger up in the first place. So Mrs. Warren put red flannel underwear in her windows and had the house painted all the colours of the rainbow.

The predominant colours are pink, blue, green and purple. The paint has been applied in the manner of camouflage paint on a ship, with a figure of Justice and a few huge cartoons for good measure. Underwear flaps on a clothesline in the front yard and the red flannels still hang in the windows.

"I've just begun to fight," says Mrs. Warren.—Reuter.

20,000,000 WIDOWS IN INDIA

Custom Responsible For High Figure.

JUDGE DIVATIA'S DISCLOSURE

Bombay.

There are over 20,000,000 widows in India and among them, between 200,000 to 300,000 are under the age of 25. This astounding disclosure was made by Mr. Justice Divatia at a meeting to celebrate the passing of the Hindu Widow Remarriage Act.

He pointed out that legal disabilities of Hindu widows were removed by the Hindu Widow Remarriage Act as early as 1856, a year before the Sepoy mutiny, yet blind custom had proved too strong and kept them in the same condition in the name of religion.

According to the speaker, there was no evidence of prohibition of remarriage of widows in the Shastras of the Hindus. Far from that, Manu, the ancient law-giver of India, and the Shastras expressly sanctioned remarriage of widows. It was only in the medieval times that prohibition, gradually enforced, crystallised into an unbreakable convention. This, he held, was indefensible on all grounds.

Mr. Justice Divatia concluded with an appeal to the Hindu community to remove this blot on Hindu culture and create public opinion in favour of widow remarriage.—Reuter.

Sacrifice Is Path Of Progress

Every Endeavour Is Sure Of Reward

"RELIGION DEMANDS MUCH OF MAN"

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

SCARCELY a week passes, that we do not read in our papers of another attempt being made to break existing records on land and sea and air. Again and again people ask the question, why do they do it? What is the urge that drives them on? The answer is that it is an inward voice that bids them go—the same call that has been made and answered in every age and every generation. For many it has led to fame and riches and honour, for others it has led to a nameless grave.

It has never called men to ease and comfort, to peace and a sense of security for it is the call of high adventure, that burns like a fire within. And when it comes there can be no holding back, though it beckons men away to the strange and the perilous, to sail uncharted seas, to plough their way through the darkness of a virgin forest, to find new snow continents, to live dangerously, to hazard life itself on a throw of the dice with the giant forces of nature. Yet they leave all and follow, lured on by the tremendous fascination of the great unknown.

Pioneers Brought Power. It has been said that England was made by her adventurers. In the halcyon day of her island story, they sailed into the unknown seas, and laid the foundations of the Empire which to-day is hers.

It had been the undying quest of the unknown which has given the Western Nations that immense power over man and nature which is theirs. The Eastern mind remained passive and unmoved, while that of the West had been crossing the Polar seas, exploring by the air of science the lunar craters and the Canals of Mars, the vast deep drifts where the stars are hanging. Yet the quest is spreading across the world to-day, and the awakening of the Eastern mind reveals how deep seated is this instinct to know and understand, and to follow that gleam, once their eyes are opened.

Progress Of Science. The story of science is just the same. To find the causes which produce the dread diseases which baffled the doctors of the earliest ages, has ever called the finest minds and brains of the medical profession to that stupendous task.

There dawned the age of speed—the train the motor and the aeroplane. Men conquered the seas, travelled beneath the water in submarines, until there remained only the vast spaces beneath the open sky. The day came when the first man dared to challenge them, there came the day when he won, and the story of aviation is one of the wonders of our age.

There came in our generation the call of the Motherland in the dark hour of her need. From the distant outposts of Empire men heard the words GO YE, and in blind obedience they answered it.

Nineteen hundred years ago three men heard the same words, and they set out on their quest that led them through strange countries to a manger in Bethlehem, where they laid their gifts of adoration at the cradle of a Child. Less than 40 years later 11 others were given the same command from One. Whose voice they were to hear again no more. They obeyed and the seed of their labours has been the glorious harvest of the Christian Church.

Path of Sacrifice. At some time or another it comes to every man. Sometimes it is answered, sometimes it is smothered by circumstance, sometimes men hold back because they fear the cost. That is what above all else what must be faced. It is the inevitable price that progress has always claimed from those who blaze the trail in every high endeavour, in every heroic enterprise.

If from the dawn of history men have been led on by the voice that called them, the pathway of their progress towards the light has been one long epic of sacrifice. Yet they have gone forward, not counting the cost.

The story of the British Empire has been written in red—the life blood of her sons. The quest of science has cost deeply of the very finest lives in that profession. Not once but often the sea has taken her toll of those who have dared her wrath. The grave yards which span the world and are for ever a little bit of England's glory tell of the supreme sacrifice of those who heard the call and answered it.

The Supreme Sacrifice. The story of the Christian Faith is the story, too, of One Who heard the call. How He answered it, the story of His long quest, how He went out into the grim darkness to find His own, and how He paid the price, is the most peerless drama of sacrifice the world has ever known.

The growth of the Church tells the same story. The blood of the martyrs was the seed that gave us birth. In every endeavour, in every enterprise of mind or hand, in every quest, the cost has been enacted and the price paid. Their names may be forgotten but their work lives on. Such is their reward. They ask for no other. Reward there must be. It follows adventure as surely as does the cost.

Christianity's Reward. And nowhere is the reward as sure as in the realm of religion. The One who called men to follow Him in the way of service has told us that in following Him there is no easy pathway, but the bearing of a cross. But just because He knows that deep down down in our hearts there is a longing for adventure, a scorn of ease, a thirst for reality, because He knows that in ordinary men there is a heart above ordinary life, because He believed that man could be won by asking much of them rather than little, He has dared to make that superb personal appeal for their devotion, that has been heard and answered across all the ages since He came, by all sorts and conditions of men, in East and West alike.

To every one who has answered it there has been given the promise, "Lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world,"—yes, and beyond. And in the utter certainty of the truth of that promise men can move out to the life of adventure to which He calls them, and with their faces towards the dawn can bear the cost.

PRISONER'S DEATH IN GAOL.

"Natural Causes" Verdict.

"Death from natural causes" was the verdict returned by the jury at the inquest held at the Central Police Court yesterday into the death of Sin Sing, a prisoner in Victoria Gaol, who died on Friday afternoon in the Prison Hospital.

Mr. Wynne-Jones acted as Coroner, and the jury consisted of Messrs. Sverre Berg (foreman), Charles Correa and Li Hoi-tung. Chief Warder Buchanan said that the prisoner was sentenced to two years' hard labour and 24 strokes of the birch in August 1927. On June 6 this year, he was admitted to the Prison Hospital. He died on Friday at 2.30 p.m.

Dr. Griffiths, medical officer of the Victoria Gaol, said that death was due to tuberculosis which, in his opinion, the deceased had contracted during his imprisonment.

GERMANY IS NOW RE-ARMING EFFICIENT SYSTEM OF TRAINING

NOTHING SPARED TO PERFECT
THE MILITARY MACHINE

(By B. N. Liddell Hart.)

THERE is a general realisation that the German military forces to-day are very different from what were contemplated by the makers of the Versailles Treaty. But the uncertainty that, like a cloud, has hung over the German military situation has tended to make the concrete-minded Englishman forget the glimpses that have occasionally been offered. Such glimpses have been partial, owing to the precautions taken, and one may reasonably assume that they will be fewer still under the stringent regulations of the Nazi regime. Under the Treaty of Versailles, the strength of the German army was fixed at 100,000 men. And to prevent its expansion in case of war from a large reservoir of trained reserves, the period of service was fixed at twelve years.

Output of Men.

Nevertheless, it is known that the army authorities have allowed engagements of six years or less, thus increasing the output of men who are all because of their high standard of training, potential instructors. They form a frame upon which a large new pattern could be speedily woven.

The human material for such an expansion lies ready at hand in the various semi-military associations which have sprouted since the war, and now, above all, in the Nazi militia. Training has gone on continuously for years despite the spasmodic protests of the treaty-making Powers. To study the record of the protests, assurances of dissolution, renewed protests, and renewed assurances, is an exercise in ironical humour.

Since the evacuation of the Rhineland the cloak of pretence has been dropped. Hitler himself declared in 1931:

"The first goal to attain is the overthrow of France. We shall have available for this war the men of our storm troops and those of the Stahlhelm."

Last year also, Article 177 of the Peace Treaty was still more openly ignored with the new organisation of German youth into groups for military instruction.

Trained For Service.

Reviewing the numbers of these associations it is quite evident that there are at least a million men, and probably more, who are now prepared by training for service. When one remembers that by the intensive methods developed in the war raw recruits can be adequately trained in six weeks, it is obvious that even this delay would not be necessary before the already part-trained German youth took their place among the first-line troops.

It is probable, indeed, that the Reichswehr would now be used as the stiffening of an actual large army rather than as the frame on which to create one.

But to anyone who appreciates the main lesson of modern warfare—the superiority of mechanical fire-power to man-power—the potential size of the German army is a matter of less concern than its armament.

Without heavy artillery, tanks and aircraft, such an army would have little chance of taking the offensive successfully against France. It might, on the other hand, be able to encroach over the Polish frontier, and even in the Corridor, by surprise, and then defy ejection—so long as it had sufficient machine-guns.

The most certain and comprehensive evidence of progress in rearmament is provided by the proportion of the military budget devoted to material. In 1931 it amounted to $6,000,000, which was half as much again as our own Army, theoretically half as much larger, spent. And it was nearly 60 per cent. of what had been spent in 1913, although the numbers were then five times as large.

In other words, the expenditure on war material per soldier is over four times as large as it was in the pre-war army, which every one recognised as the world's finest military machine.

This certainly seems curious in an army which does not have to maintain the most expensive weapons—heavy guns and tanks.

Now it would appear from certain commercial papers that various German factories, such as the Rheinmetall of Düsseldorf, have been manufacturing for sale abroad types of arms that the German Army is legally debarred from using. It is natural to assume a surplus for home consumption.

Chemical Warfare.

The Stolzenberg firm, of Hamburg, published advertisements in various Spanish and Spanish-American military papers which made it quite apparent that they were specialists in chemical warfare.

But there have also been close relations between several of these German factories and establishments in Switzerland, Holland, Sweden and Russia.

In small arms there is no longer an attempt to hide the increases beyond the Treaty standard. Thus German Army Orders recently announced an infantry reorganisation, under which each company will include nine light machine-gun sections instead of six.

On manoeuvres also there have been seen anti-tank guns and anti-aircraft guns complete in detail, including the sights, save that they were fitted with a wooden barrel. Substitution would be simple. Such a device, which allows them to keep the letter of the Treaty, has its amusing side.

Dummy Tanks.

Dummy tanks also take a regular part in manoeuvres, and are manned by motor-transport personnel, who thus exercise a tactical training somewhat outside the sphere of their normal supply duties. Co-incidentally, there has been a large manufacture of caterpillar tractors. It should not be difficult to provide armour-plate, even if complete tanks were not available, as is surmised, from Russia.

The problem of providing military aircraft seems to be even simpler. For a number of German firms have been turning out specialised machines which they have advertised as most suitable for military use. In fact, they only need to be fitted with machine-guns and bomb-racks.

Each year considerable numbers of officers have disappeared from the Army List to reappear a few years later with the sign that they are qualified pilots. And behind them is an ever-swelling reserve of pilots who belong to one or other of the military associations.

Wanted!

Men who would like
to retire at 50, 55 or 60
on £50 a month

Guaranteed income for Life

Under the terms of this simple investment plan you can arrange for a monthly retirement income that will be adequate for your needs. It may be £50. It may be £25, £100, or more; but whatever the amount, you will be interested in this modern way of securing for yourself an income that is guaranteed as long as you live.

In the meantime you are insured. Your family is also protected during the time that you are saving towards this retirement income. Our Life Income Policy designed to provide an income of £50 a month would pay your family £5,000 in cash in case of your prior death. If death should result from accidental cause, your family would be paid £10,000, or double the face amount of the policy.

We do not want anyone to be disappointed. Our Life Income Policy is not offered to men or women over 55. We have other policies and annuity contracts more suitable to their needs nor is this policy available to men in poor health or hazardous occupations. It is distinctly a selective contract, and those who obtain it get full advantage of this selection. How much does it cost? Convenient annual premium deposits take care of everything. Just how large or how small these deposits are, depends of course, on your present age and the amount of retirement income you will choose.

But remember, the Life Income Policy should not be thought of as an expense. It is a sound investment, backed by one of the strongest Life Insurance Companies in the world.

WISE & OTHERWISE

THE BRUTE.

A disgruntled critic says that girls in the big industrial towns have had complexions. Cliffs of the Plain?

REVERSED.

An American woman was given a divorce because her husband never returned home till about 3 a.m. This is the only known case of the early worm getting the bird.

GOOD HARVEST.

"For once, the farmer has a cheering tale to tell about his crops," writes an agricultural correspondent. A regular cereal story, in fact.

LOTS OF TIME.

LADY OF THE HOUSE: Here are some old stockings, but they need darning.

BUM: Oh, that's nothing, madam. I can wait while you do it.

DEFENCE.

Persia is reorganising its aerial forces. In an emergency, all privately-owned mangle carpets can be quickly mobilised to repel invaders.

Modern Marriage Service.

—For better or divorce.

Appropriate Quotation.

"Suites to the sweet," murmured the gallant furniture salesman as he attended on the pretty young bride-to-be.

HER RELATIONS.

"My wife came from a very large family. Did you?"

"No, she brought it with her."

TOOTH WILL OUT.

"Most people do not visit the dentist often enough, I am afraid," says a doctor. So are they.

A QUICK ONE.

—Ale and farewell.

MISTAKE.

A warm of bees settled recently on a piece of garden statuary. At least, that's what they thought until the jobbing gardener moved.

THOUGHT ON HIKING.

The hiker walks for miles and miles; He gaily thinks, "All Nature smiles." I think all Nature's most polite. Because it does not laugh outright.

ABSENT-MINDED.

The man who looked in the mirror to see if he had come home.

A BAD HABIT.

FIRST FLAPPER: Gee, I

made a terrible blunder at dinner last night!

SECOND FLAPPER: What

happened?

"Mother asked me if I wanted some corn and I passed my glass."

LIVELY TIMES

Lord Bledisloe has offered two valuable trophies for cheese exhibits at the National Dairy Show. Some entrants report that their cheeses are already showing a fine turn of speed.

EXCEPTION.

"No doctor likes to see his patients dropping off," declares a writer. Unless he happens to be a specialist in insomnia.

FASHION NOTE.

A fashion-writer says: "Sleeping gowns made of white tape mesh are offered as an improvement on your last year's kid." No doubt the child looks much smarter.

SHE'LL HURRY BACK.

"My wife is prolonging her visit. I need her at home, but it seems useless to write suggesting that she return."

"Get one of the neighbours to suggest it, old man."

TOP MARKS

The schoolboy who said that Great Britain was almost entirely surrounded by seas... the Irish Sea, the North Sea, and the B.C.

To-day's Fairy Story.

There was once a sailor who really had a wife in every port.

OVERHEARD

Jazz-Band Crooner: "Have you heard my last gramophone record?" Friend: "I hope so."

GOLDEN RULE

We are advised always to count ten before fighting. Boxers, of course, always count about £10,000.

DEFINED.

The longest distance between two given points is a taxi ride.

DEATH RATTLE?

According to a musician jazz is dying. "It sounds like a long and painful death."

When a child has no appetite, tongue is coated or breath is bad, a tablespoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia at bedtime to sweeten system.

Children's sluggish spells and other little upsets just vanish overnight when they get Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. A gentle anti-acid and mild laxative like this is ideal to give a child of any age, including infants. The genuine preparation—in the blue-wrapped bottle that says Phillips—has complete directions and dosage covering many important uses for adults and children.

Also in tablet form. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

SHOPLIFTING CHARGE.

Widow Bound Over.

Lau Yih, a Chinese widow, was bound over in a sum of $50 for a period of one year by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court yesterday for stealing a roll of white silk, valued at $16, from Messrs. Wassimull Assamull and Company at 46 Queen's Road Central.

Detective Sergeant McRobbie
said that the defendant was arrested attempting to pawn the silk.
She claimed that it had been sent to her by her husband in Shanghai, but later admitted having stolen it
from the Indian silk store.

HONG KONG FIRE BRIGADE

Latest Addition To Appliances.

ALL-STEEL TURNTABLE- ESCAPE

The latest acquisition to the Hong Kong Fire Brigade, a Merryweather
100-foot all steel turntable fire escape, the largest of its kind in the Far East, arrived in Hong Kong
three weeks ago and is now at the Central Fire Station where its complement are being trained in the handling of the appliance.

The escape, which is mounted on a Merryweather chassis carrying a six-cylinder Dorman engine, developing 33.5 horse power (Royal Automobile Club rating), can be opened to its full length in 25 seconds, and can also be manipulated in many different ways.

The fireman controlling the nozzle mounted at the top of the ladder is in constant communication with the men below by means of a loud
speaker arrangement.

The chassis has a wheel base of 16 feet 6 inches and an over-all length of approximately 33 feet.
Its front track is six feet three inches, while the rear track is six feet between the tyres. When fully loaded it has a ground clearance of six inches under the rear axle.

Weighing 11½ tons, the chassis and body are painted white with black wings, with brass metal-work.
All the woodwork is of mahogany.

Without reversing, the appliance
can turn in a circle whose diameter is approximately 65 feet.

The cost of the machine is between £3,000 and £4,000.

It will probably be commissioned for service within the next three weeks.

The pattern escape at present in use will probably be sent to the Kowloon Fire Station, but it is possible that it may first be fitted with a similar, but smaller, all-steel ladder.

The escape is the largest in the British Empire, and although the London Fire Brigade possesses a similar escape, it is mounted on a four cylinder chassis.

Owing to the tremendous length of the appliance, the Brigade
authorities are contemplating alterations to the station in order to accommodate the appliance comfortably.

YEAR-OLD THEFT REVEALED.

Returned Banishee Who Stole Watch.

The thief of a gold watch and chain from a woman named Chan Luk Yan, which occurred more than a year ago, was yesterday
brought home to an unemployed
Chinese, Chan Sai, who was sentenced to six months' hard labour
by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court, and to a further six months' imprisonment for returning from banishment.

Prisoner said that he had no intention of stealing the watch, but
"the woman had made a fool of him."

Detective Sergeant McRobbie
said that the accused, who was known to the complainant, stole the watch and chain from her room at the Tai Shan boarding house when visiting her there on June 3, 1932.

Seeing the accused walking in Hollywood Road two days ago, the complainant had him arrested.

THEFT OF SILK BY COOLIE.

Steals Three Bales To Stock Shop.

A Shanghai Chinese, Chan Sze
Fu, was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment at the Central Police Court yesterday for stealing three bales of silk, valued at $500, the property of a silk shop at 356
Queen's Road Central, on August 29.

It was stated that the accused,
who had only been employed at the shop for four days, was given the silk to take to the Kowloon Hotel, but failed to deliver the goods and disappeared.

A report was made to the police and the defendant was later arrested in Reclamation Street, Yaumat.

Detective Sergeant McRobbie
said that the defendant intended opening up a shop of his own with the stolen property.

BORDERERS v LINCOLNS

Williamson did not shine in the centre, not being accustomed to the play of his colleagues, and Geoffrey Lammert, the Rugger player, played a bustling game, relying mainly on his speed.

The Artillery fielded four new players, all of whom showed promise, with Stevens outstanding at left half. Thompson combined well with Bar-necough, and Price was good
in defence.

There was no scoring in the opening half in which chances were missed by both sides.

After the interval Barnecough
netted when the ball slipped out of Simmonds' hands. The latter played a very fine game, dealing splendently with his shots. Boyd equalised with a good ground shot from a well placed free kick by Fisher, and Lammert gave his side victory when he cleverly eluded Collier to beat Wharton after a spectacular effort.

100,000 HEADACHES RELIEVED IN ONE DAY

EIGHTY MILLION PEOPLE in Britain, France and Belgium. Untold millions in India, Malaya and South Africa—here are but a few of the countries where ASPRO is successful with the millions on account of its pain relieving qualities. To say that ASPRO relieves 100,000 depressing headaches every day throughout the world would be more than a conservative estimate.

The reason of ASPRO preference for headaches is because it banishes aches and pain quickly—there are no dangerous after-effects—ASPRO does not harm the heart and it conforms to the standard of purity laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia, the guiding authority of the Medical Profession.

'ASPRO'

Does Not Harm the Heart

5 MINUTES

For RELIEF WITH
'ASPRO'

There is nothing indefinite about
'ASPRO'. Its service is QUICK, safe, effective and definite. It gives your relief in 5 to 10 minutes and then goes on to dispel or dissolve the cause of the pain, allowing Nature to effect its own cure. Furthermore, you get no harmful after-effects from
'ASPRO', as it is speedily eliminated from the system a few hours after being taken. It neither dopes, deadens nor drugs.

'ASPRO' BRINGS SWEET SLEEP TO THE SLEEPLESS

There are many thousands of people who now have sweet peaceful sleep,
who hitherto hardly knew the meaning of a period of restfulness.
'ASPRO' has brought about the transformation by its sweet soothing influence on the nerves, and breaking up of local feverish conditions. Two tablets before retiring is the usual dose.

First Aid for Mothers

Most children are subject to Toothache, Earache, Colds and sudden bursts of Temperature. 'ASPRO' can be safely

THE TIGER OF TIBET

"Come, sahib, quick!" He darted across the face of the slope towards a spot where the cliff above overhung the tumbled shale. But he forgot the altitude, for they were now over sixteen thousand feet above the sea. Sudden and violent exertions in the rarefied air are impossible and result in one, end. He fell flat, groaning aloud for breath, unable to move. Geoffrey, more accustomed to the peculiar conditions attending great heights, moved more leisurely and stooped to help his panting companion. Then his blood froze. He heard a sound which he thought he would never hear again. It was the sound of an approaching shell. For the fraction of a second he stood irresolute, and then he realized that the whine above was the menace of another falling rock. He seized Sher Khan under the arms, but as he stooped there was a sickening rush of air, and a boulder the size of a large sheep thudded into the shale beside him and then rolled and bounced downwards. He dragged Sher Khan for a few yards, when another rock hurtled down. This one did not fall quite so close, and the Pathan struggled to his feet. He was rapidly regaining his breath. They plodded on through the heavy shale towards the foot of the cliff, and two more boulders fell in quick succession, but both several yards behind them, and in another minute they gained the foot of the cliff itself.

"Ah, sahib, remember that it is darkest under the lamp. We are safe here. They cannot throw stones inwards."

"Damnation, Sher Khan. Do you think those stones were meant for us?"

"You know these hills better than I do, sahib, but why is it that there are only big stones falling? In all the other stone-falls we have seen I have noticed stones of all sizes, both great and very small. But to-day they were only great. Also, sahib, why is it that they seemed to follow us and suddenly ceased when we reached shelter?"

"Lord, but I believe you're right." But he could not think of his own danger. He had seen Phyllis through his forty-power telescope. He was sure of it. What could it mean? He searched for her again, but could see nothing. For a moment he was gripped by the fear that one of the falling stones might have struck her, but a moment's reflection showed him that she was well out of their path, and he breathed again. He told Sher Khan that he had seen an English lady whom he believed he knew, and that he accordingly concluded that her father, who was a padre-sahib, lived somewhere near at hand.

Sher Khan was not in the least surprised. He was accustomed to religious fanatics in his own country and regarded them with sympathetic veneration. Besides, he had not the interest in Phyllis that Geoffrey had.

"He may be able to tell us something. But first we must get from under this cliff."

"Well spoken, Sher Khan. And I think the best plan is to follow the foot of this cliff to our left to where you see that dip. Having reached that point, let us climb to the top and see if we cannot find our friends above."

"That was better spoken, sahib. Let us start at once. My breath is now well again. I forgot these accursed hills."

(To Be Continued).

MOTORING NOTES.

Wasting Patrol Hints On Prevention.

Many motorists who are anxious to keep petrol consumption down to a minimum will be interested in the factors which influence petrol wastage. These are:

Permitting brakes to drag. Letting the engine run at high speed when idling. Driving too long in first and second gear before changing to "top."

Racing the engine in spurts when waiting at traffic stops or for passengers to embark. Uneven acceleration; that is, jerky use of the accelerator pedal.

Driving with fouled spark plugs. This wastes about 20 per cent. of the petrol used for every plug that is out of commission. When plugs have been in use for 10,000 miles they should be replaced with new ones.

Queer Tale Of An Old Car

Converted To Horse Trap By Dutch Farmer.

From a far-off land comes news of what must be one of the earliest British cars ever to be exported. A lady living in the Orange Free State has sent to Humber Ltd., a snapshot of an ancient car of their make being pulled by a horse, and in an accompanying letter writes: "Here is a photograph of the first motor-car that arrived in this district, 31 years ago. It is now in the possession of a Mr. Koos Kriel, a retired farmer, who purchased it in a sale about 7 or 8 years ago. The number of the engine is 3010 X1A, twin-cylinder air cooled, and is in good order; all the fittings and body are also in an excellent state of preservation. The upholstery is still in its original condition."

A DISTINCTION

In Great Britain the distinction between dangerous and careless driving has to be decided by the magisterial mind, while the lay mind can only look on and marvel, says an English journal. For instance, the driver of a motor van who drove through Stapleford at 45 m.p.h. to 50 m.p.h. was fined £5 for "driving without due care and attention." The van contained 4,000 lb. of T.N.T., sufficient to blow up the town.

NO EXCUSE FOR BAD BRAKES

Modern garages have special brake-testing equipment, and it is the work of a few minutes for an expert to put your brakes into perfect trim.

*In answer
to a lady's letter*

*Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.*

A lady writes to say that she does not understand why an 8-cylinder car does not cost more to run than a car with fewer cylinders. She refers to my statement that our Ford V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gas than any car we have made.

The use of 8-cylinders does not mean the addition of two or four extra fuel consumers. It is not, for example, a 4-cylinder engine multiplied by two. Our 8-cylinder engine takes the fuel supply of an ordinary 4-cylinder engine and divides it eight ways. And why?

By reducing four larger explosions into eight smaller ones, we get engine smoothness and quietness. Eight-cylinders indicate the way the gas is used, not the amount. It is just the difference between going upstairs in four long jumps or in eight ordinary steps.

Two things use up gas—bad engine design and useless car weight. Besides having an engine that gets a high percentage of power out of the fuel, the Ford V-8 has a light, strong body and chassis so that no power is wasted in moving excess weight.

The only extravagance about the new Ford V-8 engine is in the building of it. The extravagance is ours—the economy is yours.

The whole question of car economy needs clearing up. An economical car gives economy all round. Price, operation, upkeep, all play their part. If what you save on gas you lose elsewhere, that is not economy.

As to upkeep, our dealers say that in recent years the improved quality of Ford cars has cut down their repair business 50 per cent.

As to price with quality—judge for yourself.

As to economy, here is the record of a stock car three weeks out of shop in Oklahoma:

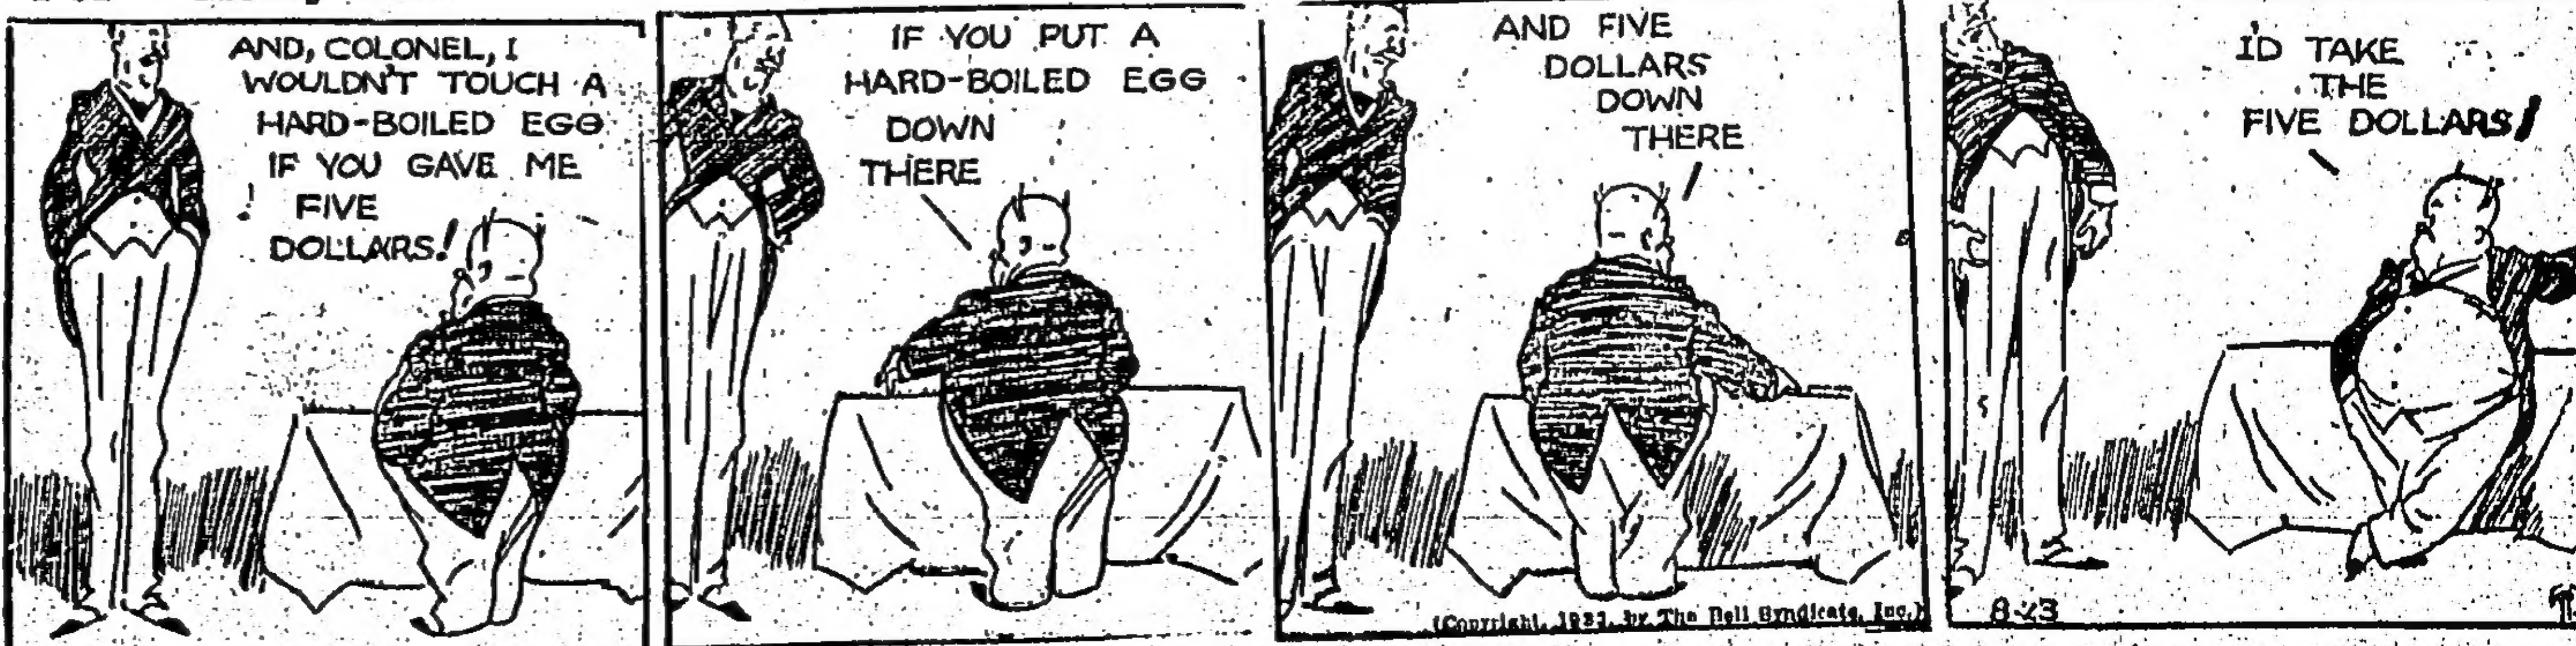

On a run of 10,034 miles at the rate of 1,000 miles a day—the Ford V-8 gave 18.8 miles per gallon of gas. Not a drop of water was added to the radiator. The oil was changed once in 1,000 miles.

That should answer a lot of questions.

"NO OTHER WOMAN"

"NO OTHER WOMAN."

Many a woman who stands by her husband in the lean, hard years
scrapping and sacrificing, often loses him to an alluring young damsel after he acquires
worldly success.

That he doesn't have to stay lost, especially if the wife is clever, is proven by "No Other Woman," RKO-Radio Picture now showing at the Central Theatre.

Irene Dunne, Charles Bickford
and Gwili Andre form the eternal triangle in this drama which depicts the rise of a steel mill worker to opulence.

But for the enterprise and desire of the wife to get away from the grime and glare of the steel mill, the husband would never have been anything but a steel worker—the best steel worker in the company, true, but always sweating in the heat of the furnaces!

With wealth comes leisure—time to notice other woman—time to play—opportunity to get into mischief. Then trouble, separation, divorce—and a wife and mother's tremendous sacrifice to hold her own!

Eugene Walter's play, "Just a Woman," and a story by Owen
Francis provided the plot for "No
Other Woman." Besides Irene Dunne, Charles Bickford and Gwili Andre, the cast includes Eric Linden, Buster Miles, Lolla Bennett, Christian Rub and other. J.
Walter Ruben directed.

"SO THIS IS HARRIS!"

"Smart and tuneful, 'SO THIS IS HARRIS' is a tabloid musical comedy featuring the popular orchestra crooner, Phil Harris, and Walter Catlett. Instead of being confined to the usual stage sets, the producer has taken it outdoors, giving it nifty backgrounds on a golf course, with a pulchritudinous bunch of golfers in sport togs to please the eye.

"Song numbers are neatly and logically introduced, and there is just enough story to hold it together nicely. It should be a perfect featurette to go on a bill with a rather heavy main attraction.

Roosevelt Recovery Plan Legs

Green, President of the Federation of Labour, while admitting that half a million returned to work in July, declares there is no evidence that any has been re-employed since.

Other authorities estimate a million have been re-employed, which means that recovery is lagging behind General Johnson's original prediction that an extra five or six millions will find work before the beginning of September.

Meanwhile, the cost of living is rising steadily. An official estimate is unavailable, but general store prices have risen six and a half per cent. from April to July.

SOVIET ERECTS BARRICADE OF THIRD POWER

"Afraid Of War With Japan."

SENSATIONAL CHARGES IN MANCHUKUO PAPER

Harbin, Yesterday.

The "Harbin Times," to-day contains a sensational article headed "Afraid of War;" "Ceding Concessions." "U. S. S. R. barricading herself from Japan by a third Power" "Secret negotiations between Slavutsky and Hanson."

The article authoritatively asserts that the Soviet is, in all directions, frustrating the economic and military growth of Manchukuo, and is enrolling Manchukuo officials as Communist agents. The objective is to disturb peace and to retard progress as a safeguard against a direct collision between Japan and the U.S.S.R.

Continuing, the article states that the United States Consul-General, Mr. Hanson, has for several months, been negotiating with the Soviet Consul-General, M. Slavutsky, for concessions in the U.S.S.R. Maritime Province for a certain Government.

By granting concessions, the Soviet's objective is to defend the Maritime Province against Japan's advance, and to create a third Power barricade, the paper declares.—Reuter's Pacific Service.
